WMF Gourmet Moments

Let the plates rattle – you've got guests arriving for dinner soon. So get everything ready and sit down! Allow yourself a moment's reflection and admire your immaculately laid table. Sprinkle a few fresh twigs and light the candles! Sit back and relax, taste and enjoy.

Set the table, dish up.
Your appetite is not as minimalist as your taste.

No frills, just clean lines – that is how to style a modern table. Decorate your table with simple designer pieces! Cutlery, candle holders, napkin rings and little bowls create a simple and elegant look.

JETTE

Dress your table up beautifully: Jette is a cutlery set by the designer Jette Joop. The basic shape is classic, while the length and proportions are modern. The striking sculptural facets at the end of the handle are reminiscent of the cut of a precious gem.

Stratic

Striking and dynamic – Stratic comes from Porsche Design Studio and is the purist among the cutlery ranges. There is nothing superfluous about Stratic. The proportions are modern. Rectangular surfaces and gently rounded edges give a well-balanced look. The slight curves at the end of the handles accentuate the striking look.

Michalsky Tableware

A new look for old designs! The spirit of the traditional WMF of the past translated into a new design language – this is the idea behind the Michalsky table collection. Based on classics from the WMF archive, designer Michael Michalsky has produced a contemporary, self-confident cutlery set that coordinates with the matching accessories to style your table at its finest. Arrange the candles. And use the champagne cooler as a centrepiece.

Cromargan protect®

Cutlery is just cutlery? Not at all, not when you look at the material and the design a bit more closely. Here WMF provides us with an insight into the variety and special features of its cutlery as well as some important information on quality.

Finally, different cutlery models are presented in closer detail. Thanks to the wide range of WMF cutlery, there is always the right model for every individual's taste in style and shape. Because just like it's always been, a well-laid table makes us happy as well as making eating an enjoyable experience every day.

Cutlery must be able to withstand the demands of everyday use and still look good even after years of use, no matter how often it is used. As a material, Cromargan protect® offers all these qualities.

In 2007, WMF succeeded in developing Cromargan® further to make cutlery even more resistant to signs of wear and tear from everyday use. This advanced material is known as Cromargan protect®. In addition to the impressive properties that Cromargan® can boast of, Cromargan protect® is also extremely scratch-resistant. Even frequent heavy-duty use doesn't damage the material. The finishing involves an additional treatment process during the production stage.

This ensures that cutlery made of Cromargan protect® stays looking good, and has the additional advantage that polished surfaces keep their shine and matt ones stay matt. A forward-thinking innovation, which was developed for everyday use and for people who value quality items. This means that the WMF brand offers cutlery in two excellent qualities: Cromargan® and Cromargan protect®.

Quality on the table.

Resistance

Cutlery made of patented Cromargan protect® has an extremely resistant surface: Polished surfaces stay shiny, matt finishes stay matt.

Long-lasting sharpness

The quality forged blades made of special blade steel keeps the knives sharp, even after extensive use.

Dishwasher safety

Even intensive use and frequent cleaning in the dishwasher have no adverse effects on Cromargan protect®. This means the cutlery stays rust-free for a long time.

Design

Perfectly designed cutlery that is not only stylish and good-looking, but also sits perfectly in the hand.

Knives, forks and spoons are much more than utensils for eating. Cutlery is there when we need it all day long, from our breakfast cereal in the morning to our dessert after dinner. When purchasing cutlery, the design is often the most important criterion. There is a wide range of cutlery available. No matter whether you prefer simpler versions or something more special, traditional, modern, extravagant, cheerful shapes or clear contours, shiny or matt – the designs add something to every laid table in their own special way and offer the perfect model for all tastes.

Evoque

Straightforward, tough, elegant. The sleek linear design offers no distractions. The transitions from the handle to the front part of the cutlery are smooth, giving the cutlery real charm.

Premiere

Premiere is a cutlery set with a long tradition. The simple design goes back to the Biedermeier period. The delicate leaf motif at the end of the handle is masterfully crafted and is repeated on the back.

Atic

An unpretentious and beautiful cutlery line that focuses on doing its job. Its contemporary shape and proportions fit perfectly with a modern decor. Atic's understated look enables it to be combined with a host of other items.

Kent

The cutlery combines modern shapes with traditional style. This harmonious blend means it can be combined in a variety of ways. Kent fits in well with any decor, be it a rustic style or trendy surroundings, without sacrificing any of its individuality.

Cutlery set

Ambiente

Ambiente combines contrasting features. The stem is broad and flat at the end, yet the cutlery is delicate and finely curved at the neck. The transition to the front part is stylishly sculpted. This delicate decorative element gives the cutlery its distinctive appearance.

Vision

Slender and delicate, yet solid and sculpted. Our own vision for a magically-laid dinner table. The Vision cutlery also sits well in the hand. What makes it really special: The knife can be set lying down or resting upright on the blade.

Arrange, adorn, present. It's time to dress the table.

A touch of magic. The right cutlery for every course. To keep everything organised, here are a couple of basic rules for laying the table: Leave enough space between place settings to give all your guests space to move. Set out the cutlery in the reverse order that it will be used, so start with the main course inside and move out towards the starter on the outside. The space above the plate is reserved for dessert cutlery. Decorate freely to your heart's content – and you're done!

Corvo

You can twist and turn the Corvo knife any way you choose – it looks great from all angles. Resting on the blade, the knife grip visually matches the fork and spoon. If you lay the blade sideways, its handle stands slightly upright. The trademark of this cutlery is its slender shape that sits well in the hand and the silky matt finish.

Augsburger Faden

Traditional cutlery inspired by the early 19th century. Its unmistakable stylistic features are classical austerity and conciseness. The decorative line around the edge was a favourite stylistic element of silversmiths in Augsburg.

Silk

Cutlery like velvet and silk. Silk lives up to its name. Soft shapes, flowing transitions and balanced proportions give it a pleasant tactile quality. The knife blade follows the curve of the handle and leads it to a harmonious finish. The silky matt finish rounds off the overall impression.

Linum

The Linum cutlery range has a consistent and stylish design. It is minimalist and linear, with modern proportions. The emphasis on the front sections is striking – the distinctively shaped bowl of the spoon, the pronounced curve of the fork and the individual blade of the knife. The matt finish goes perfectly with the purist design.

Sinus

Sinus cutlery is characterised by soft shapes and organic-looking lines. The front parts look attractive, the proportions are well balanced, and everything is perfectly in tune with everything else. The gently-curved decorative line around the edges accentuates the overall appearance. The polished surface turns the cutlery into a showpiece in its own right.

Nearly everybody knows him, and everybody who knows him loves him: Winnie the Pooh, the silly old bear from Hundred Acre Wood. He's always searching for honey, and his best friends give him a helping hand. Winnie the Pooh brightens up the day, creating a calm mood at the breakfast table while the kids eat their boiled egg. Very young children might need a little extra help eating. That's why the feeding spoon is perfect for feeding babies from glass containers.
